

Benji Borg

Benji Studied Industrial Design, where he grew his passion for design and moved onto pursuing a degree in Advanced Character Animation in California. While studying, Benji spent most of his early twenties sailing full-time in a bid to qualify for the London 2012 Olympic Games.

Once he completed his studies and put his sailing career on hold, Benji teamed up with his older brother to launch their first startup called ANCHOVY. Studios - a creative digital agency in the heart of Malta. The Agency kept on growing and moved from a bedroom operation into a public company with a 40 strong team hustling each day for local and international clients.

The brothers are also responsible for launching several others startups such as Briiz, Fetch it & Taaable.

Benji is an entrepreneur at heart who loves getting his hands dirty, working closely with his team and pushing everyone forward to build amazing products and experiences.

